

CORONAVIRUS COVID-19 UPDATE

Dear WoodGreen partner,

We hope that you, your colleagues and families remain safe and in good spirits throughout this unprecedented time. At WoodGreen, we are closely monitoring and adhering to all Public Health advice and are taking proactive steps to minimize the transmission of COVID-19. We are committed to continuing services to our clients, especially our most vulnerable. In addition to providing essential in-person services through our community care program and meals on wheels, WoodGreen will continue to provide extensive and robust remote services, both by phone and online to our clients. To improve the safety of our staff and clients we have taken the following measures:

1. Making our spaces safer. We have been taking additional safety precautions through social distancing, remote work, enhanced screening procedures and additional cleaning protocols across all of our sites.
2. Providing Essential in Person Services wherever possible. We are maintaining essential in-person services at our sites, such as Meals on Wheels, assisted living, personal support services to frail elderly, and supports to homeless individuals and housing programs.

Please visit our dedicated page for regular updates on our programs and services at <https://www.woodgreen.org/coronavirus-updates/>.

Over the past few days, it has been remarkable to witness our staff and community supporting one another. Especially our Personal Support Workers on front lines who continue to support our most vulnerable clients. It is them that we must celebrate and continue to take precautions to slow the transmission so that they can continue their brave work. Thank you for your patience as we navigate this challenging time together.

Sincerely,

Anne Babcock
